Tips for a Successful Shoe Game

To ensure that the shoe game is a hit at your wedding, consider the following tips:

1. Tailor the Questions

Make sure to customize the questions based on the couple's personalities and the audience. If the guest list includes older family members, you may want to keep it light and avoid overly explicit questions.

2. Set the Right Tone

Before starting the game, the host should set the tone by letting guests know that while the game will be fun and potentially cheeky, it should remain light-hearted and respectful.

3. Practice Timing

Ensure that the game doesn't drag on too long. Aim for around 15-20 minutes, as this is usually enough time for guests to engage without losing interest.

4. Use Props

Consider having fun props available, such as funny hats or signs that guests can hold up when they agree or disagree with the couple's answers. This can enhance the visual appeal and engagement.

5. Capture the Moments

Have someone designated to take photos or videos during the game. These candid moments can become cherished memories for the couple and their guests.

Conclusion

The shoe game is a delightful addition to wedding festivities, providing entertainment and insight into the couple's relationship. With a mix of playful and dirty questions, this game can create a lively atmosphere that guests will remember fondly.
