A Christmas Carol follows the transformation of Ebenezer Scrooge, a miserly old man who values money over people. The story unfolds on Christmas Eve, as Scrooge dismisses the festive spirit and scorns those who celebrate it. His life takes a drastic turn when he is visited by the ghost of his former business partner, Jacob Marley, and the spirits of Christmas Past, Present, and Yet to Come.

Stave One: Marley's Ghost

The novella opens with Scrooge in his counting house, where he exhibits his cold-heartedness. After a long day of work, he returns to his dark and lonely home. Scrooge is visited by the ghost of Jacob Marley, who is wrapped in chains and bears a warning about the consequences of a life lived without compassion. Marley tells Scrooge that he will be visited by three spirits that night.

These scenes evoke feelings of nostalgia and regret, revealing how Scrooge's focus on wealth warped his sense of happiness.
