- Examples of reasons include:
- Prior commitments
- Personal values or beliefs
- Limited availability

4. Offer Alternatives (If Possible)

If appropriate, suggesting alternatives can soften the refusal and demonstrate a willingness to help in other ways.

- Alternatives could be:
- Referring someone else who might be able to assist
- Suggesting a different time or project that aligns better with your schedule

5. End on a Positive Note

Conclude the refusal with a positive statement to maintain goodwill and encourage a continued relationship.
