Overview of the WA State Real Estate Exam

The WA State real estate exam is administered by the Washington State Department of Licensing (DOL) to assess candidates' knowledge and competence in real estate practices. It serves as a mandatory component for obtaining a real estate license, whether for a broker or managing broker. The exam ensures that candidates understand Washington-specific real estate laws, regulations, and ethical standards, safeguarding consumers and maintaining industry professionalism. Passing the exam is required before applying for a real estate license and engaging in real estate activities legally within the state.

Eligibility and Licensing Requirements

Before registering for the WA State real estate exam, candidates must meet specific eligibility criteria established by the Washington State Department of Licensing. These requirements ensure that applicants possess the foundational knowledge and experience necessary to succeed on the exam and in their real estate careers.

Basic Eligibility Criteria

Applicants must be at least 18 years old and legally eligible to work in the United States. They must also have completed the required pre-licensing education courses approved by the Washington State DOL. These courses cover essential topics such as real estate principles, practices, and law.

Pre-Licensing Education Requirements

Washington State mandates successful completion of 90 hours of pre-licensing education, including:

- 60-hour Real Estate Fundamentals course
- 30-hour Real Estate Practices course

These courses must be completed through an approved education provider to qualify for the exam. Additionally, candidates for the managing broker license must complete additional education and meet experience requirements.
